RECOMMENDED JOB SEARCH TECHNIQUES

1. Write the best RESUME and COVER LETTER you can.
 - ✓ Come to Resume Writing Workshop or watch a Webshop in The Career Center Blackboard class.
 - ✓ Get your documents critiqued during our Quick Question hours.
 - ✓ Start early in the semester you are graduating.
 - ✓ Continually update your resume and cover letter.
 - ✓ The cover letter should be specific for each school.
2. Begin to develop PROFESSIONAL RELATIONSHIPS/NETWORKS during student teaching.
 - ✓ Eat lunch in faculty room.
 - ✓ Type thank you letters to the principal (include your resume) and cooperating teacher.
 - ✓ Participate in school meetings and events; after-school activities.
3. TELL EVERYONE you know that you are looking for a job!!!
 - ✓ Keep copies of your resume with you at all times.
 - ✓ Use social media sites to network with professionals & alumni organizations.
4. MOST schools require candidates to fill out ON-LINE APPLICATIONS and many are no longer accepting resumes through the mail. These on-line applications are time-consuming so, plan ahead. With most on-line applications, your application and resume/cover letter are fed into a database. Many sites allow you to create a username and password, which allows you to update your information. PLEASE note, www.olasjobs.org allows you to complete an on-line application and you MUST regularly check the website and APPLY for posted positions by the participating districts in NYS. HOWEVER, many NYS districts DO NOT USE OLASJOBS! Check their specific websites regularly.
5. Review and respond to all NEWSPAPER CLASSIFIEDS even if they overlap with schools/districts who may already have your resume. They keep resumes in response to ads in a separate “pile.”
6. If you are a current student in your FINAL year of study, participate in The Career Center EDUCATION RECRUITMENT PROGRAM.
 - ✓ Don't forget the first step is attendance at a special orientation session for the program during January or February, with a corresponding deadline
 - ✓ If selected, on-campus interviews are held in March or April
7. MASS MAILINGS/UNSOLICITED APPLICATIONS (several)
 - ✓ Try and be at the top of the pile. Repeat mailings to the same schools/districts; often times resumes are stored in boxes or are thrown out if not needed. Try mailing directly to principals!
 - ✓ Send a mass mailing at the end of the winter (Feb.), mid spring (April) and early summer (after school budget vote) and again in July or August. Be sure to personalize each letter.
8. INTERNET JOB BANKS allow you to search for jobs on-line and post your resume (see the last section of this manual for suggested sites). You should explore charter schools, private schools, out of state opportunities, and non profits.

The more methods you use, the more you increase your chances for SUCCESS!

WHAT IS A RESUME?

A resume is

- a summary of your skills, experiences, achievements and activities
- a marketing tool presented to employers in order to obtain an interview

A good resume is

- succinct, detailed and action-oriented
- organized with easy-to-read headers, identifiable sections and an effective use of white space
- focuses the reader on the most relevant information for the position

Resume Tips

Layout

- Crisp and clean look, which is visually appealing
- Effective use of white space to avoid a “dense” looking resume
- Use spacing to accentuate headings

Length

- Generally, does not exceed one page for current students or new graduates

Note: Exceptions may include resumes for teachers, nurses, researchers, non-traditional students, or curriculum vitae for those working in academia

Emphasis

- Bold, italics, underlining and CAPITALS can be used to make key information, such as headings, job titles, or employers, stand out
- Be consistent in your use of these tools
- Avoid over-use of emphasis tools, since it can break the flow of the resume

Reproduction and Printing

- High-quality stock paper of at least 20-pound weight is preferred
- Paper should be a conservative color such as white, buff, tan or light gray
- Print on a laser quality printer; photocopies should be professional quality
- Font size should be conservative; no smaller than 10 pt and no larger than 12 pt (except for headings)

Tips for a Computer-Friendly Resume

If you plan to send your resume via e-mail, consider the following suggestions:

- Save your resume as an RTF (rich text format) or PDF —this will help eliminate any potential software compatibility problems.
- Make sure your resume is suited to online viewing—avoid using italics, lines, graphics or other design elements that may interfere with the screen quality of your resume.

Resume Contents

Identification:

Name, address(es), phone number(s), e-mail

- Include both campus and permanent address and phone number if currently at school
- Include one phone number where you can be reached and receive messages in a timely fashion

Tip: Make sure that a professional greeting is recorded on your voice-mail or answering machine.

Tip: Make sure that you use a professional e-mail address (i.e., yourname@yahoo.com vs. surferdude2@gmail.com)

- Do not include non-relevant personal information such as your age, sex, marital status, race, religion, national origin, political affiliation, social security number, or health status

Objective:

The reason you are sending the resume to the employer (optional)

- Clear, concise and specific to the position

Example: Instead of "I am currently seeking any position the field of education," use something like "To obtain a position as a full-time tenure track Elementary Teacher."

Certifications:

On a teaching resume, used many times in place of the Objective. Simply, a list of what state certifications or other certifications you will or currently possess.

Education:

Institution(s) attended, location, degree(s) earned, major(s), minor(s), cumulative GPA, major GPA, graduation date.

- May include key courses relevant to objective
- May highlight achievements, such as a high GPA
- High school is not necessary to include (unless applying to that district)
- If a degree/certificate is not yet earned, include credits earned or expected graduation date, and area studied

Experience:

Work experience, research experience, volunteer experience, fieldwork, internships, organizational leadership, etc.

- Position held (Title)
- Name and location of organization
- Dates of work
- Accomplishments and responsibilities
- Demonstrated skills

Tip: Remember to be consistent in your use of date formats; for example, use ONE of the following date styles rather than "mix and match":

January 20xx-May 20xx, or 1/20xx-5/20xx, or Jan. 20xx-May 20xx, or Spring 20xx

Tips for writing the experience section

How to Start

- Brainstorm all of your experiences, paid and unpaid
- Include accomplishments for each
- Include responsibilities
- Include skills needed to meet those responsibilities
- Rank the experiences by importance to the job you seek
- Now you can start to write them out in a more organized format

- Work chronologically within each category starting with your most recent experience.
- Describe (rather than list) your accomplishments using action words to depict yourself as “a doer.” (A list of action words is included in this booklet). Quantify whenever possible, using numbers, percentages and dollars.
- Include transferable skills you gained from each experience; those skills that you build and carry with you as you move from job to job such as oral and written communication, interpersonal skills, working effectively with a team, leadership, and research or analytical skills.
- Place those jobs and accomplishments that will be valued most for the job you are seeking prominently on your resume.

Honors and Activities:

Academic honors or other awards, leadership roles in activities-

- If academic honors are listed in Education, do not repeat them here
- Avoid a “laundry list” of affiliations
- Include the length of your affiliation/dates
- Include high school activities/honors only if they are highly pertinent to the job you are seeking or this is your first year in college

Skills:

Relevant skills to the position such as computer skills, language proficiencies and key job specific skills-

- Indicate the level of your understanding of a language (such as fluent or conversational) and computer skills

Interests:

Indicates an interest outside of your stated experience-

- Category is optional
- Irrelevant or assumed interests need not be included

References:

Names, titles, addresses, phone numbers and e-mail addresses of people a potential employer may contact-

- Use a separate sheet; do not include “References upon request” on resume
- Maintain the same format (font, style, paper quality) as your resume
- Use cooperating teachers, professors, current and former employers, or student-organization advisors who can speak to your qualifications rather than friends or family (three to five people)

Tip: Be sure to get your references' permission first and give them a copy of your resume!

Tip: After you have made a decision about a job or internship offer, send a thank-you letter to each of your references informing them of your plans.

RESUME CHECKLIST

- Do you have the resume components listed in an order that highlights your most relevant experience?
- Is your format consistent throughout the resume?
- If you included an objective, is it clear and position-specific?
- Does your experience list all the key components: position, employer, location and dates?
- Are the descriptions of your experience results-oriented in terms of accomplishments?
- Are your experience descriptions in the correct verb tense? (Use the present tense for current experience and the past tense for previous experience; for example, “assist” versus “assisted”.)
- Is it one page – no more than two in length?
- Are dated listings in reverse chronological order within each section?
- Does your resume look neat, crisp and well spaced on the paper?
- Is your resume free from errors?
- Is your resume an honest and accurate representation of your professional self?

COVER LETTERS & OTHER JOB SEARCH CORRESPONDENCE

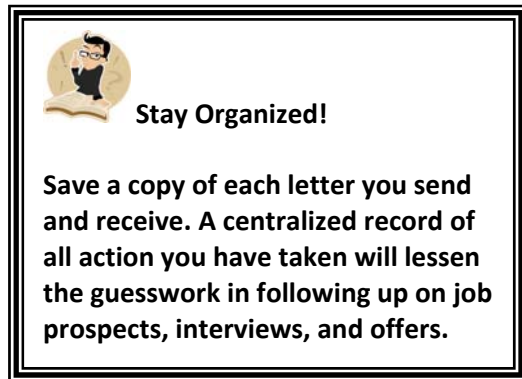

Job search correspondence is

- designed to generate interviews and, ultimately, job offers.
- written specifically for each application and not mass produced.

Structure of Correspondence

Your letter writing should follow the principles of proper English usage and effective business correspondence. Generally, it is best to use simple and straightforward language in communicating your message. Be direct and concise. Job-search correspondence typically includes the following components:

- Writer's return address
- Date
- Employer's name and address (inside address)
- Salutation
- Body (usually 3-4 paragraphs)
- Complimentary closing
- Writer's name and signature
- Enclosure/Attachment notation (when appropriate)

If mailing a hardcopy, there are several guidelines to consider when typing job-search correspondence:

- Use standard 8 1/2 x 11-inch paper.
- Use good quality resume paper preferably the same type used for your resume.
- Always type correspondence; handwritten letters are unacceptable in the U.S. (Note, however, that in some parts of the world handwritten letters are preferred.) Be sure to proofread and correct all spelling and grammatical mistakes. Letters must be error-free. Do not rely on software spell-checks.
- Always type the return address and mailing address on a legal-sized or flat envelope.
- Use the same font style and size as your resume.

Types of Correspondence

There are six basic types of job search correspondence: the cover letter, prospecting letter, post-interview thank you, job offer clarification, letter of acceptance, and letter of declination. While each letter has a specific focus, the format is similar for all.

The Cover Letter

A letter of application, or cover letter, provides cover for an enclosure (your resume). A well-written cover letter allows you to highlight your qualifications in a way that lets the employer know why you are the best candidate for the position. To be an effective advertisement introducing the qualities you are promoting in your resume, your letter should:

- capture the reader's attention.
- stress your potential value and benefit.
- and invite an in-depth reading of your resume.

In general, the basic cover letter has three sections (i.e., paragraphs), each with a specific purpose:

Paragraph 1– Tell why you are writing. State how you found out about the organization/position. Mention any referrals.

Paragraph 2– Refer to your enclosed resume. Highlight skills relevant to the organization/position. Indicate how you can make a contribution.

Paragraph 3– State how and when you plan to follow up. Indicate your interest in meeting to discuss the organization/position. Thank the employer for their time and consideration.

Although cover letters are not always required for resumes submitted for many on-campus interviews, they should always be used when sending resumes or returning employment applications to hiring officials.

Cover Letters & Email

Most applications are handled online via e-mail or uploading of documents rather than sending a traditional “hard copy.” In this case, you will still want to include a “cover note” in your e-mail that will serve the same purpose as the more traditional cover letter.

The following are a few tips for writing email:

- Use the subject line of your e-mail to entice the potential reader.
- The e-mail message itself is the letter. Keep it short—two paragraphs should be sufficient.
- Include a statement about who you are, the position you are applying for, how you heard about this job, and an indication of your knowledge of the organization
- Use standard salutations and closings (e.g., “Dear” and “Sincerely”)
- Carefully spell-check and proofread your email
- Attach the resume

Prospecting Letter

- Use to inquire about possible vacancies, get your resume read, and generate interviews
- Use extensively for long-distance searches
- Target specific individuals in specific organizations

- Structure as you would the basic application letter (cover letter)
- Focus on how your qualifications match the organization's needs

Post-Interview Thank You

Send/email promptly (within 24 hours) after each of your interviews. A well-written thank-you letter will:

- Remind the employer who you are and impress them with your courtesy and follow-through
- Reiterate your background and qualifications
- Show your enthusiasm and continued interest in the field or specific position discussed
- Convey to the employer your sincere appreciation for his or her time and consideration

Tip: Sending your thank-you letter via e-mail is appropriate, especially if there is a quick hiring timeline; additionally, you can follow up with a "hard copy." Traditional letters will remind them of you a few days after the interview has passed.

Job Offer Clarification:

Sent in response to an oral or written job offer that does not provide all of the pertinent information you need to make an informed decision.

Your letter should:

- Indicate your interest in the employer and the offer
- Ask specifically for the information you need

Note: This information may be requested over the telephone, but be certain to confirm all details in writing with the employer to avoid any future misunderstandings.

Letter of Acceptance

Sent to formally accept position and clarify important information:

- Refer to the offer made by the employer
- Restate terms of employment and confirm pre-employment details, starting date, etc
- Close the letter by expressing your appreciation and pleasure at joining the organization

Letter of Declination/Withdrawal

As a courtesy, a formal letter declining a job should be sent to each employer who extended you an offer after you have made a decision not to accept. You should also notify an employer if you wish to withdraw your candidacy before an offer has been made. Always be tactful and appreciative in your correspondence (in other words, don't burn any bridges behind you, since you may want to work for these employers in the future).

Dr. Kathy Smith
District Office
123 Main St.
Anywhere, NY 11111

Dear Dr. Smith:

Due to recent budget cuts, my employer is not able to retain my position at ABC Township High School. I received excellent evaluations by my supervisors and I believe I made a strong and positive impact not only on the district, but most importantly on my students. I am confident that the Anywhere School District will discover that I am a dedicated, resourceful teacher who not only has a background in teaching math but an ability to truly inspire children. I will bring to your students a dynamic style and a passion for teaching math. I strive to create a positive learning environment where interactive lessons connect to students' everyday lives.

In the past year, I achieved my goal of creating a classroom environment in which students enjoyed learning and had the expectation of participating daily. Using SMART Technology, I created interactive lessons that helped facilitate the learning of complex math concepts by relating them to real world situations. To share my integration of technology in the math class, I was asked to lead a professional development seminar for my fellow colleagues.

One of the most rewarding experiences for me this year was the success of all my senior HSPA students; they all passed the state exam and earned a high school diploma. My effective teaching techniques led to having ample time for review for the Algebra I End Of Course Exam. A majority of my prep time was spent working one on one with students to help them with basic mathematical deficiencies. Beyond the classroom, I was a mentor and role model to many students. I devoted time after school to helping students with their self esteem and vocal performances in the Black History Club Talent Show as well as "Township Idol," of which I was a co-advisor.

It is my mission and challenge to motivate students to reach their full potential both in and out of the classroom. It is important that mathematics is taught in a meaningful and exciting way that is relevant to students' lives. I believe that my extraordinary ability to relate with children and to provide a nurturing and enthusiastic environment will be a positive contribution to the Anywhere School District's academic program. I would appreciate the opportunity to discuss my qualifications with you. I am available for an interview at your convenience. Please contact me at (123) 456-7890. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

George Washington

Anywhere, NY 11111

Dear Dr. Smith:

I am applying for the positions of either Permanent Substitute or Elementary Teacher in the Anywhere District. As an energetic and articulate educator, I am eager to implement your mission of “lifelong learning for all students.” Unlike many other teaching candidates graduating this year, I have gained valuable experience working in an inclusion setting and preparing students with special needs for state testing.

While student teaching in an inclusion 4th grade classroom, I had the opportunity to conduct review exercises for the ELA Assessment. Specifically, I learned how to review skills through the use of games and integrating other subjects without putting stress on the students. My cooperating teacher commended me on my abilities to connect with students and encouraged other grade-level teachers to seek my assistance.

There are not many careers where one can make a difference in a child’s life. Teaching is one such occupation and I am an educator who will go beyond the traditional classroom and become involved in all aspects of the school community. Furthermore, I believe that the foundation for a dynamic classroom environment begins with building a community. When students have the belief that it is their classroom, their pride and dedication shows in their work. I came to this belief not just through student teaching but from my memories of my elementary school teachers. As students, we responded to our teachers’ positive attitudes and I continue to this day to take great pride in my work both as a college student and teaching candidate.

Additionally, I am a mature, diplomatic, thoughtful, and well-spoken individual who is an accomplished pianist and artist. I believe these talents and skills will be a great asset to your district. Please call me at the phone number listed above for an interview. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Susan B. Anthony

Dear Dr. Weiss:

I am writing to inquire about any available elementary teaching positions in the Baldwin School District. I understand that your district seeks to create an educational community where tolerance and active learning are essential components. I believe that my desire to teach and ability to create a dynamic and safe classroom will help me meet the goals I share with your district.

Over the past several years, I have developed strong technology skills that I try to use on a daily basis both professionally and personally. Specifically, I have designed a website, which contains daily homework assignments and enrichment activities for students. Furthermore, I have heightened students' comprehension levels of both curriculum and technology through student-created PowerPoint presentations, webquests and online activities.

As both an After-School Teacher and as a Student Teacher with the Hempstead School District, I had the opportunity to work with a diverse student population. My students were not only culturally diverse, but also diverse in learning levels, as well. Since the students were learning at different paces, I needed to create exciting learning opportunities and teach them according to their unique needs. As a result, I became a much stronger educator.

I have wonderful memories of my teachers and the experiences they gave me. I would like the opportunity to give back to the field of education. One of my primary goals, as I embark on a teaching career, is to develop a sense of positive self-esteem among my students. All students deserve a teacher who genuinely cares about their success.

My warm and enthusiastic personality lends itself to the type of educator your district is looking for. I would appreciate the opportunity to discuss my qualifications with you. Please feel free to call me at the phone number listed above to schedule an appointment. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Cindy Burns

Dear Ms. Smith:

As a longtime resident of Any Town, New York, I have been and continue to be very impressed with our district’s progress. This past spring, I student taught with Mr. Riley of ABC Elementary School and he suggested that I apply for an elementary teaching position in our schools. I believe that my education, enthusiasm, and business background will be of great interest to you.

My understanding of Any Town Schools is that you value technology, leadership, and integrated educational experiences, that are stimulating and meaningful. My background in business indicates that I have excellent technical and management skills, which can be transferred into the classroom setting. In addition, I am accustomed to working with diverse groups of professionals. As my resume indicates, I have extensive volunteer experience at our district’s Recreation Program teaching children how to create basic web-sites and develop their writing and artistic skills. It is these two experiences conjunctively, that have developed me into the teacher I am today.

During my tenure as a student teacher one of my most challenging experiences was learning how to effectively work with students who had English as their second language. Fortunately, under the guidance of the classroom teacher, I learned how to implement effective teaching and guidance techniques. Although it took me many years to discover my true calling in life, after working as a student teacher, I now realize that I am most successful and happiest when working in a classroom setting.

I believe that my dedication and creativity will be of great interest to you. Please feel free to call me at the phone number listed above to arrange an interview. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Very truly yours,

Jennifer Brown

Mary Smith, Director of Personnel
XYZ Public Schools
10 Main Street
Any Town, New York 11111

Dear Ms. Smith:

I am seeking a position as a school counselor in the XYZ District. Unlike many other candidates, I have real world experience in the field of education as a Special Education Teacher's Aide with Nassau BOCES, and strong verbal and written communication skills in Spanish. My strong desire to help young people with their academic, personal, and social needs coupled with what I have learned from working with youth with special needs makes me a strong candidate as a school counselor.

In the course of my day as a Special Education Teacher's Aide, I came into contact with a diverse student population whose learning and social functioning levels covered a wide spectrum. I particularly enjoyed and excelled at working with the teacher to help guide students to set academic and social goals for themselves. Currently, as a counseling intern at Seaford High School, I realize that one of my greatest strengths is the ability to increase students' tolerance of frustration when they become overwhelmed and feel incapable of succeeding. Helping students realize their potential by focusing on their accomplishments and reflecting on past successes helps promote positive self-concept. Specifically, I believe my exposure to a community resource such as BOCES and my work with special needs students will only serve as a positive foundation for counseling students in the XYZ District.

For the past year and a half, I have furthered my counseling experience by serving as a mentor to a 14-year-old boy. Our activities revolve around specific goals we would like to accomplish through our mentor match. It is extremely rewarding to know that I am someone with whom my "mentee" can work with to achieve his goals, and with whom he can talk to regarding such issues as peer pressure and social relationships. It gives me great personal and professional satisfaction that I am a positive force in my "mentee's" life.

As outlined above, my dedication to the field of education and more specifically, school counseling, is both proven and strong. I believe you will discover my warm personality, strong communication skills, maturity, and foreign language skills in Spanish to be of great interest. Thank you for your time and consideration. Please feel free to call me at (516) 222-3333 to arrange an interview at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Craig Jones

Dear _____:

Remind the interviewer of the position for which you were interviewed, as well as the date and place of the interview. It is always courteous to express your appreciation.

Confirm your interest in the opening and the organization. Highlight your qualifications and slant them toward the various points that the interviewer considered important for the job. If you have done anything since the interview that demonstrates your interest in the position, such as talked with alumni or faculty, or you have done further research on the institution, it should be mentioned here.

Include any information not previously presented to supplement your resume, application, and the interview. You may have completed a term paper or a research project, or perhaps you have received some kind of recognition. If travel, location, or a similar subject was stressed during the interview, be sure to confirm your willingness to comply with these conditions.

If appropriate, close with a suggestion for further action, such as a desire to have an additional interview at a mutually agreeable place and time.

Anytown, NY 11111

Dear Dr. Apple:

I would like to thank you for the opportunity to interview with you on June 30, 20xx. I enjoyed meeting you and the entire interview panel, and learning more about the opening in art education for 20xx-20xx.

It is my hope that I conveyed my qualifications and enthusiasm for art education effectively. As discussed, I am experienced at teaching children of all ages and various learning levels. As a skilled photographer, I am sure my contributions to your district will be valued among the students, staff, and community.

I believe that I would be a strong educator in your district and I can see that I would be working with a collaborative, caring, and creative staff. As I mentioned in my interview, I am highly interested in a full-time position at the elementary level, but would also consider other types of positions for next fall.

I am eager to meet with your staff during any subsequent interviews. I look forward to hearing from you in the near future. Please feel free to call me at the phone number listed above with any questions or concerns. Thank you again for the interview opportunity.

Warm regards,

Jennifer Greenberg

Handling Illegal Questions on the Application

Although you may have chosen to eliminate personal information from your resume, be aware that many school districts still use old application forms, which may ask illegal questions (be aware of these types of questions on an interview, as well). You need to decide how you will fill out the application form. Additionally, some interviewers may ask you illegal questions during an interview or over the telephone. Please be aware that you do not have to answer these questions. Try and gauge why they might be asking this type of question and see what would be a legal question:

Inquiry Area	Illegal Questions (examples)	Legal Questions
National Origin/Citizenship	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Where were you/your parents born? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are you authorized to work in the U.S.?
Age	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How old are you? • When did you graduate? • What is your birth date? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are you over age 18?
Marital/Family Status	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is your marital status? • With whom do you live? • Do you plan to have a family? When? • How many kids do you have? • What are your child-care arrangements? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Would you be able and willing to work overtime as necessary? (This question is okay assuming it is asked of all applicants for the job).
Disabilities	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Do you have any disabilities? • Have you had any recent or past illnesses or operations? • What was the date of your last physical exam? • How tall are you? Your weight? 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are you able to perform the essential functions of this job? • Can you demonstrate how you would perform the following job-related functions?

Preparing for Your Interviews

You have sent out your resume and cover letter to prospective employers and are waiting to hear from them. Don't plan on getting plenty of notice for an interview. Some schools will call you and ask you to come in the next day! Are you prepared? Have you planned what you are going to wear? To say? First impressions are very important!

If this is your first job search, there are a few things to keep in mind. As it is a professional position you are seeking, remember—think conservative. You might not intend to wear a suit to teach a first grade class how to finger paint, but during your interview you will be meeting with everyone from principals to superintendents. They are the ones who will be making the decisions on hiring.

Colors for suits and dresses usually are conservative, meaning gray, blue, or black; and for shirts/blouses, white/pastel colors are acceptable. When in doubt, that old standby still holds true—navy blue. Keep accessories to a minimum. Do not wear distracting items like an abundance of or dangling jewelry or loud ties. Keep your hair neat and make-up should be minimal to give you a fresh, clean look. However, you are a unique individual and your attire should be a reflection of you.

Do you have a confident, professional look?

Spend time assessing your attitude.

A friendly smile, an attentive manner, and clean concise responses to questions asked will have a positive impact on the interviewer!

Let the interest you have in educating young people come through!

Your resume, cover letter, and application were successful! You have landed an interview! The employer wants to know more about you; you want to know more about the employer, the district, and the specific job.

Preparing for an interview involves being ready to answer the interviewer's questions and to ask some of your own. You should gather information about the school, institution, or organization. The first place to look might be at the school district's web-site. Most districts have web-sites that may include a mission statement, district news, school activities, and school report cards. In addition, state departments of education have many resources on their respective websites. The material may include demographic characteristics, community resources, employment opportunities, applications, salary schedules, and contracts. By collecting information you will be well informed to ask pertinent questions and discuss the position, school, and employment opportunities intelligently.

More and more interviews for teaching candidates are designed as a panel. The panel can be made up of any number of administrators, teachers, school board members, and parents (usually no more than 10, in total). In some interviews, you may be interviewed at the same time as other candidates; this is known as a "round-robin" or group interview. In other words, you and any number of other candidates will sit in front of a panel and have to answer questions one after the other.

Be prepared to explain more about the information on your resume. Review your strengths and accomplishments. Think of ways to relate them to the position for which you are being interviewed. There are various types of interviews, ranging from the seemingly casual and open-ended in which the interviewer asks few questions and lets the candidate do most of the talking, to the highly structured in which the interviewer asks specific questions following a preplanned format. One hint to successful interviewing is giving examples or telling brief stories instead of answering questions in theoretical terms or how you would do something in the future. Real examples/stories make it more interesting for the interviewer(s) to listen to you and make you unique!

Many schools require candidates, after the first few rounds of interviews, to teach a demo lesson to a class. Some districts will give you a lesson topic, while others will let you pick any topic you want.

QUESTIONS ASKED DURING AN INTERVIEW

I. Personal Qualifications and Background

1. Why do you want to be a teacher?
2. Tell us about yourself.
3. Why do you want to teach in this district? Why do you want this position?
4. What gives you the most satisfaction as a teacher?
5. Why should I hire you instead of other applicants?

7. What do you think are the development needs of students at the middle school/high school level?
8. What do you consider to be the role of parents in the school? How would you involve them?
9. How would you incorporate technology into your counselor role?
10. Besides your day-to-day responsibilities, what could you contribute to our developmental guidance program? What are the important components of a developmental guidance program?
11. How would you utilize community resources and other external agencies?

IX. Special Education Specific

1. Explain your understanding of the concept of team evaluations.
2. What strategies would you use to consult with classroom teachers?
3. Tell me about your most difficult experience.
4. How would you advocate for a child and balance the needs of the child with the system’s ability to deliver services?
5. How would you deal with angry or upset parents?
6. How do you integrate educational goals with a child’s social or emotional needs?
7. How do you react when you have a conflict between the reality of a situation and your professional beliefs?
8. When working one-on-one with a special-needs student, how would you adapt the curriculum and instructional strategies for that student?
9. How do you formulate recommendations for services?

10. Walk us through how you would organize the following type of classroom and how you would establish academic goals: a 3-5 grade self-contained 8/1/1 classroom where students were placed in this class due to emotional problems, learning disabilities and a need for strong structure.
11. If you were asked to teach in the inclusionary setting at the elementary level, what would you do to prepare, with your team teacher, for the upcoming year? What profile of special education might be appropriate for this class? What profile of student would you not consider? What accommodations and modifications would you suggest for classroom activities, assignments and assessments to help the special education students in this class be successful?

X. Physical Education Specific

1. What are the components of a quality Phys. Ed. Program? How would you prioritize these components?
2. What are the top 3 goals of your physical education program?
3. As always there is talk of cutbacks, and we need to justify our PE positions. What would you do to convince those in decision-making positions that PE in our schools is important and that children are learning valuable things in PE?
4. What would a 45-minute lesson look like in your PE class?
5. How would you describe developmentally appropriate curriculum?
6. How do you provide for individual differences in your class?
7. In addition to the PE position, we will have _____ coaching positions open. Would you be interested in this?
8. Do you have any ideas on how we might promote our PE program in the community?
9. There is a big push in our school district to significantly raise our physical fitness test scores. How would you go about doing this?
10. How do you feel about the inclusion of individuals with disabilities in your classes? Are you open to this and do you have experience with this?
11. Do you have any experience using technology in your physical education program? If so, elaborate on those experiences. How do you feel about it?
12. Do you see any advantages to having Internet access as a PE teacher? Give specific examples how you would use the Internet for your own professional development and with your students.

XI. School Administrator Specific

1. Why do you wish to become an administrator in this district?
2. In view of the selection criteria for this position, what do you feel are your major strengths? Liabilities?
3. Describe your leadership style and provide some examples of how it has been successful.
4. Give an example of a major administrative problem you faced and explain how you addressed it.
5. Please describe one or two significant improvements that you have made as an administrator.
6. Describe some of the ways in which you have been involved within your school community. How has your district benefited from these activities?
7. How would you help staff members to become better at resolving conflict? Describe a situation in which you assisted staff in this area.
8. How do you deal with a parent who calls to complain about a teacher?
9. Please share an example of program or curriculum innovation that you developed and why it was positive.
10. Describe your experience in managing facilities and provide evidence of your effectiveness.
11. Describe your experience with budget development and provide evidence of your effectiveness.
12. What modifications, if any, would you make in the budget process to develop a budget requiring reductions in expenditures? Give an example.
13. Describe your experience in grant writing, and indicate your success in obtaining funds.
14. What is your approach to student management? How has this been positive?
15. Describe your experience working with school boards.
16. What is your approach to staff evaluations? What are the unique concerns related to evaluation of beginning teachers?
17. Outline your approach to planning.

QUESTIONS TO ASK THE EMPLOYER

You should have several questions prepared before your interview to ask of the employer/panel. Typically, toward the end of the interview, the interviewer will ask you if you have any questions. If your questions have not been answered during the course of the interview, this is the time to ask. On average, it is a good idea to have approximately 10 questions prepared, so that you will have plenty to choose from if some questions are answered during the course of the interview. Your questions should be written down, so that you can refer to them easily.

1. I have always considered myself a team player and feel it's important and more productive when staff members can put their heads together. Do the teachers at this school plan or work on projects together?
2. I have experience in choral music and play production and would like to be involved in that in some way. Does this school offer any music or drama for the students?
3. In what ways do the parents get involved with the school?
4. What kinds of cross-cultural activities do you offer to the kids and the community?
5. What new innovations or programs has the school or the district implemented (for your grade level or subject area)?
6. Does the school or district have a general discipline plan?
7. Does the school or district have a mentor teacher program?
8. Are the classrooms self-contained or departmentalized?
9. Is there team teaching?
10. Do you offer professional growth opportunities for new teachers?
11. How often are evaluations given and how can I expect feedback to work?
12. What are the strengths of this school/district?
13. How do administrators offer teacher support if the need arises?
14. How would you characterize school morale?
15. When will you be notifying candidates of your hiring decision?

QUESTIONS TO AVOID ASKING THE EMPLOYER

1. Anything related to salary.
2. Benefits (School office personnel, your teacher association representative, or a teacher handbook can fill you in on this subject.)
3. School hours (This information can be obtained from the school secretary or by asking other teachers.)
4. Time off for personal family consideration (Don't ask the members of the panel, get a copy of the school's teacher handbook.)
5. Breakdown of ethnicity of the community (Unless, of course, you are a bilingual teacher and this information is necessary.)
6. Anything that may be considered politically incorrect (sexist, racist, etc.)
7. Any question that could be interpreted to mean that you are not totally committed to the teaching profession (e.g., "Do you expect your teachers to take work home often?")
8. Over-stressing concerns regarding discipline.
9. Any questions that pertain to the religious, political, or socioeconomic breakdown of the community.
10. Questions regarding the bargaining unit/union/teacher's association.
11. Extracurricular responsibilities (Don't ask anything that may cause the panel to question your work ethic or attitude.)
12. Prospects of transferring to another grade level or department (Wait until you are hired; then pursue this concern at the appropriate time.)

AFTER THE INTERVIEW

Self-Assessment

You need time to think about all you have heard. For each interview record details about the position, the employer, the school or institution. Review and evaluate your interviewing techniques, identifying areas that need improvement and areas that you think were dealt with effectively, which you can repeat. See the Interview Assessment Worksheet on the next page for a guide to self-evaluation.

Thank-you Letter

After the interview, send a thank-you letter to the interviewer (in the case of a panel send a letter to the coordinator of the interview or any “key” people on the panel) to thank him or her for spending time with you. This is an opportunity to reiterate your interest in the job and to remind the administrator of who you are. This letter should be sent within 24 to 48 hours after the interview. If given permission by the administrator to use his or her e-mail, a thank-you letter sent via e-mail is acceptable. See the sample Thank-you Letter in this guide.

Job Offers

If you are not interested in the job but are made an offer, express your refusal (over the phone, in most cases) without sounding too negative. Again, a brief thank-you letter to the interviewer after a verbal refusal, which thanks them for their time and the offer, is appropriate.

If you receive an offer and are willing to accept, do not delay. Call the employer promptly with your decision and find out exactly when, where, and to whom you should report for your first day. Follow with a letter expressing your enthusiasm and eagerness to join the school or institution.

SOME REASONS WHY CANDIDATES ARE REJECTED

1. Inappropriate clothing/dress
2. Giving rehearsed, insincere answers
3. Poor communication of ideas
4. Blaming students for their failure to do well
5. Not knowing when to close or stop talking
6. Chewing gum during interview
7. Overly relaxed/informal attitude
8. Answers that are defensive or aggressive
9. Dangling earrings/long brightly painted fingernails/body piercing
10. Indications that you think your methods and philosophies are the only ones
11. Lack of membership in professional associations
12. Candidates that think they have finished learning because they are out of school
13. Bragging/flaunting yourself
14. Criticizing another school, person, or previous employer
15. Not knowing current educational trends, methods, or issues
16. Trying to impress with boundless knowledge on educational topics
17. No enthusiasm/lack of passion
18. Being unprepared
19. No questions for the interviewer/panel
20. Apparent inflexibility
21. Lack of self-confidence
22. Tardiness
23. Being political or contacting a member of the interview committee away from the interview
24. More interested in money than the job
25. Those who make a point of what they won't do
26. Not sticking to the subject
27. Candidate's skill/experience do not match job
28. Poorly defined career goals
29. No knowledge of the school or community
30. Poor grammar
31. Pretending that you know the answer, when you don't
32. Negative body language

TEACHING IN PRIVATE/INDEPENDENT SCHOOLS

Under the United States Constitution, parents have a fundamental right to direct the education of their children and since 1925, the Supreme Court has recognized that this is inclusive of the right to choose a private education. Today, a parent's right to choose a private education is reflected in the laws of all 50 states, which specify that private education is an alternative or exception to public school attendance requirements.

What is the difference between a private parochial school and an independent school? Independent schools are governed by a board of trustees and are funded through tuition, charitable contributions and endowments. Whereas, private parochial schools receive additional funding from the church.

Why would anyone choose to teach in a private/independent school? The answer is rewards: personal, professional, and even financial. Historically, teachers have been willing to work in independent/private schools for less compensation than they would receive in the local public schools because of the "climate advantage" in the former; however, school boards are beginning to recognize that the climate advantage must be supplemented by salary and benefit compensation. Additionally, independent/private schools are seen within the industry as having a climate advantage over other types of schools. Many claim that independent/private schools are fortunate in controlling the student culture and norms of behavior and are also committed to treating teachers as professionals entitled to the freedom of designing their own curriculum.

Independent/private schools seek teachers who are idealistic, passionate about teaching, and who are caring in their relationships with students and colleagues. In addition, most independent/private schools do not require state certification, which is beneficial to students who do not have a degree in education.

TEACHING IN CHARTER SCHOOLS

According to The New York City Charter School Center:

The New York State Charter Schools Act (Education Law § 2850-2857) was passed in December 1998, allowing for the creation of autonomous public schools. Charter schools are public schools that operate according to a five-year performance contract or "charter." They are exempt from many public school regulations for curriculum development, staffing and budgeting; but, they are held accountable for students' academic performance and specific goals set forth in their charter. If charter schools fail to meet any of these, they risk having their charter revoked or not renewed.

Like all public schools, charter schools must meet state standards and Regents requirements, as well as state and federal laws regarding health, safety, civil rights and student assessment. Also, charter schools are open to all students and cannot discriminate in their admissions' process. Often there are more interested students than available slots, in which case charter schools must by law choose students through a random lottery.

While charters are publicly funded by tax dollars, they do not receive any funding for facilities. In New York City, many of the charter schools share space with traditional public schools.

There are two bodies that are authorized to give charters:

- Charter School Institute of SUNY
- State Education Department (SED)

New York City Charter School Center

The New York City Charter School Center is an independent, not-for-profit organization, established in 2004. The Charter Center helps new charter schools get started, supports existing schools, builds community support, and trains new leaders so that highly effective public charter schools can flourish. Job postings and career fairs are listed.

INTERNATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

A teaching abroad experience can be very useful to future teachers, especially when they are open to new ideas in teaching and when they are increasingly aware of the need to enrich their own cultural background. Additionally, Hofstra University does offer some international student teaching opportunities.

Teaching K-12 Abroad

- Usually requires a college degree and U.S. certification.
- Start applying in November for the following year.
- Major job fairs are in February at various locations throughout the country.
- Positions can be found through the U.S. government, private international schools, or through volunteer organizations.

Teaching English Abroad

- Usually requires a one-to two-year commitment and a college degree.
- Typical locations are Eastern Europe and Asia.
- Apply in December for September start date.
- People with certification will be in more demand and receive higher pay i.e., TESOL (Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages), and TEFL/TESL (Teaching English as a Foreign/Second Language).
- Certificate programs are available in the form of intensive courses that last one to two months. Most four-week courses cost about $2,000 to $2,500. You can find more information from Transitions Abroad: <http://www.transitionsabroad.com/listings/study/index.shtml> This could be helpful in competitive areas such as Western Europe. Better still is an MA degree in TEFL.
- The most efficient method of applying is working with a U.S.-based organization, which arranges the placement and may provide for housing and a work permit.

Agencies/Organizations:

- DOS, U.S. Department of State, Office of Overseas Schools, <http://www.state.gov/m/a/os/>
-Lists 180 American-sponsored schools located in 113 countries. These schools are assisted by the U.S. Department of State but are independent and non-governmental. Usually requires certification and some experience.
- U.S. Department of State-English Language Programs, contact the English Language Program Division, <http://exchanges.state.gov/education/engteaching/>
-The Office of English Language Programs creates and implements high quality, targeted English language programs in specific regions and countries of the world. All programs are administered through the local American Embassy or Consulate.
